

Format of an Article

1. Title

- Clear and engaging
- Gives the reader a good idea of the topic
- May include a subtitle for extra detail

2. Introduction

- Briefly introduces the topic
- Captures the reader's interest
- May include a hook (interesting fact, question, or statement)
- States the purpose of the article (what the reader will learn)

3. Body Paragraphs

- Organized into clear sections or subheadings
- Each paragraph focuses on one main idea
- Use of facts, statistics, examples, and explanations
- May include:
 - Definitions of key terms
 - Comparisons or contrasts
 - Chronological or logical sequencing

4. Visual Features (Optional but Encouraged)

- Images, charts, or diagrams with captions
- Bullet points or numbered lists (to break down information)
- Text boxes for key facts

5. Conclusion

- Summarizes key points
- May restate why the topic is important
- Can include a final thought, reflection, or call to action (if appropriate)

6. Tone and Language

- Formal and objective
- Third person (usually)
- Clear and concise language
- Avoids personal opinions (unless asked)
- Connectives and transition words (e.g. in addition, however, for example, as a result)

7. Sources (if required)

- Information should be accurate and researched
- Cite sources if part of the task instructions (in a simple format)

